

I'm late this month, but with good reason . . . well, a reason at least, but shouldn't call it "good". As many of you know, my gmail account was the target of an attack that sent out an email under my name with instructions to open and sign a document. I have heard if anything bad happening to those who attempted to open the email. Rather, after the email were sent, the contact was deleted. Yep, all of them.

My apologies to everyone for the inconvenience this may have created, but I hope you understand that it was the Google server that failed to detect the virus, not the firewall and virus protection I maintain on my computer. With that said, I found how to restore my contacts from the Google cloud, and now have them back. But, if you feel uncomfortable receiving emails from me in the future, please bounce this back with "remove" in the subject line and I will delete you from my contacts list.

Ok, let's move on the the shows;

This is the time of year that the list is short. I know there are many more shows out there that I don't have, so please feel free to submit them. My preference is for submissions to be in the format you see used above. This allows you to say what you want said in your post. If you just send in a flyer, you are at my mercy. Be warned, if I'm busy, your post will be short and sweet.

As always, if you wish to be removed from this distribution list, simply bounce this email back to me with "Remove" in the subject line. I will remove your address, and send you an email confirming the deletion. Then, that's it.

Until next month, enjoy your ride!
